The Artistry of Change

For Personal and Organizational Transformation

NLP has always been a field where aesthetics and artistry – elegance, congruity and grace – have been in balance with pragmatics – evidence-based results, problem solving, bottom line success, etc).

Artistry, like mastery, is a function of the interface between conscious and unconscious processes, in which a person experiences a sense of full participation, without self-judgment or arrogance. It is characterized by authenticity, generativity and grace – in which, as Gregory Bateson pointed out, “the reasons of the heart are integrated with the reasons of reason”.

In this innovative new seminar, Robert Dilts explores the “aesthetic” aspects of the processes of change. Inspired by Mozart, Da Vinci, fractals and other concepts, he explores how beauty, harmony, relationship, etc. not only can support more “out of the box” thinking but also contribute to the meaning and the quality of our living, everyday experiences.

You will also explore how principles and methods of 3rd Generation NLP and art-based interventions can be used to:

- Promote personal and organizational transformation
- Bring more value to your work by bringing more artistic principles and approaches
- Discover different ways of thinking through artistic values and art-based interventions
- Learn to create more “whole-brain” and “whole-person” breakthroughs and solutions
- Become more of a “renaissance” person – integrate your “left and right brain” thinking
- Enhance your creativity, individual expressiveness and ability to innovate
- Bring a depth and dynamism into your coaching, leadership, teaching, etc.
- Transform more basic processes and collaborations into generative ones
- Be more systemic and sensitive in your practice with NLP
